

JOHN LEWIS

AW26

AUTUMN 2026

Style-led relevance underpinned with enduring quality is the foundation of everything we do, and this season that means curating the perfect capsule wardrobe of elevated essentials for autumn/winter.

Versatile, premium pieces underpin the collection, bolstered by trend-led styles that are as seasonally relevant as they are easy to wear. Suede, cashmere, leather and premium denim feature throughout alongside staple outerwear, sleek tailoring and statement accessories.

The new season edit leans into the layering trend - or onion dressing as it has come to be known - where adding layer upon layer brings character, versatility and a wardrobe that works harder for longer. Intuitive for unpredictable British weather, layering also adds depth, contrast and movement to a look. Proportion-play hemlines and mixed textures define the trend; sleek leather jackets under lightweight macs, modern, simple dresses over tailored trousers, knitwear over the shoulders of an already considered outfit.

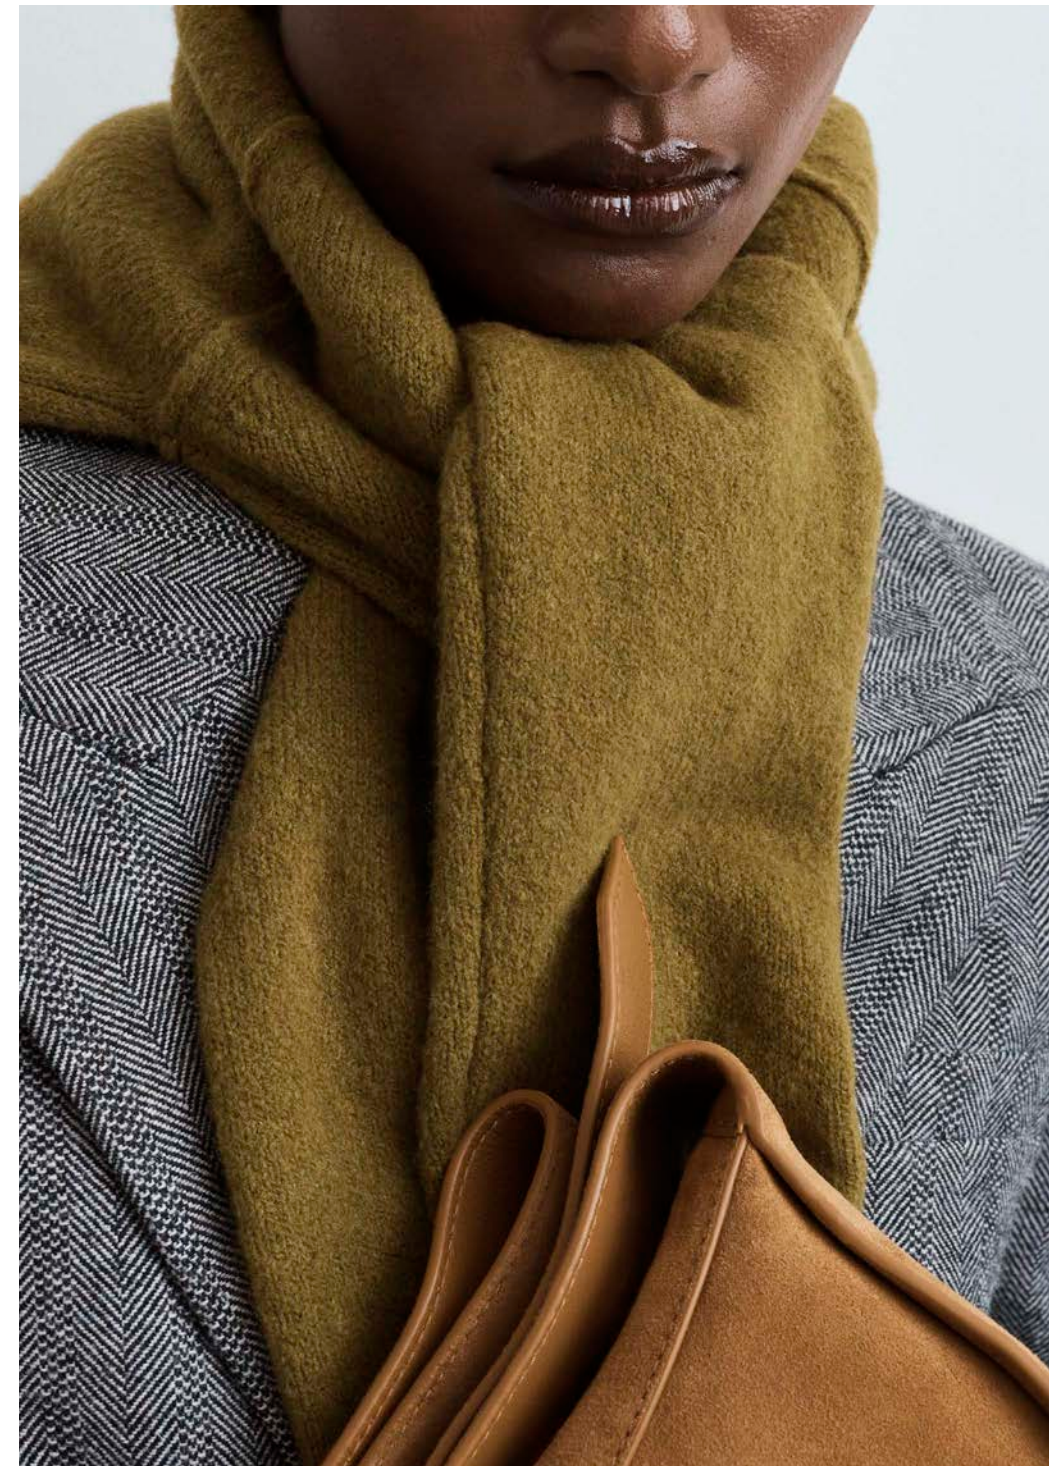

John Lewis centres around a timeless Autumnal colour palette of warm conker brown, deep indigo and cool camel punctuated with pops of primary red and khaki green. The mac continues to be a transitional must have; our sell out checked style returns in a reversible option, while the traditional trench is updated in a bitter chocolate hue for the John Lewis collection. Tailored dresses are worn over wide leg trousers for a contemporary feel, while an art inspired floral print brings new life to the column skirt.

Our premium branded offer continues to grow as we welcome female-founded brands Aligne and Stylein to our curation. The exclusive Amanda Wakeley collection returns for a second season sitting alongside favourites such as By Malene Birger and Weekend MaxMara.

Denim continues to be the cornerstone of And/Or and for Autumn it's styled with intricate blouses, with 70's references seen throughout. Silhouettes have ease and effortlessness, and detailed embroidery elevates everyday pieces with a unique appeal. Layering is kept tonal and contemporary with mixed fabrications to add interest.
